

H601 Threading Cutting Oil

This is a multi-purpose threading and cutting oil. It has been developed with superior additives and special base oils for use in drilling, threading, drawing, tapping, and deep drilling operations on metals such as steel and iron.

Features

Superior Protection Performance: Protects cutting parts during operation, extending the life span.
Wide Application Area: Thanks to its wide range of applications, it reduces product diversity and saves on purchasing and storage costs.
High Lubrication Performance: They show good lubrication properties in various metal working applications and prevent metal from boiling to metal.
